GASTRO-GUIDE

The Gastro Guide project continues with many news in this new year 2023.

The European partners are still working to successfully develop all the necessary outcomes for the successful execution of the project.

During the last months, the partners, among many other activities, have been developing a large field research to find out the needs of the potential gastro-guides, translating each project results into several languages and creating a curriculum in order to develop a training for the future gastro-guides and an interactive web platform.

Below we explain the results achieved so far.

1. RESEARCH RESULTS

It represents the first Project Result (PR1) and summarizes the results, conclusions and findings from the process of identification of the professional profile and training needs of the Gastro-Guide.

Having 47% of the respondents (160 persons) willing to take part in the training, and 35% still deciding (118 persons), the partnership considered these representatives a direct target group to which the possibility to take advantage of the course should be closely communicated.

Among many other findings, we found, therefore, that this project is very attractive for the participants, who can become a potential Gastro-guides.

Welcome to Gastro-Guide Site Project!

GASTRO-GUIDE: the person who works as coach/trainer to inhabitants (mainly young, unemployed, women, disabled) to cover their lack of skills regarding the local communities: gastronomy, cultural and natural heritage.
